

ADVISOR BRIEF - 22 SEPTEMBER 2026

Katerina Grigoriou — Client Brief

15 new clients (18 in total) · from the 19 September registration pool · Avla Gayrimenkul A.Ş.

15 clients have been assigned to you, on top of the three you already hold — eighteen in total. These are not cold leads: every one filled in our form and declared a budget, then registered for the 19 September event themselves. You were in the room that day. That is your opening line.

1 Your clients

You also hold three clients allocated on 20 September — Aylin Gülnaz Kudunoğlu (a reservation has been made; the task is to close it), Muhammed Khaleghi and Cengiz Turan. Those three come first: a reservation in progress outranks every new name on this list.

2 How to open the call

START FROM THE EVENT THEY ALREADY KNOW

Every person on this list registered for 19 September — the event you were part of. Open there: you are not a stranger calling out of nowhere, you are the developer side of a meeting they already signed up for. Ask how it went for them, or why they could not make it. That single sentence turns a cold call into a continuation.

YOUR PARTICULAR ADVANTAGE — USE IT

You are the developer side of this table. No other advisor can say "I will ask the developer directly" and mean it literally. For any hesitation on delivery date, payment structure or what is actually being built, you can answer first-hand.

Joint call model: for a serious client, set the first meeting as a Zoom with Sami or Melih. They carry the language and the relationship; you carry the project authority. This is exactly how Kemal Ak is being handled, and it removes the language risk entirely.

LANGUAGE — VERIFY BEFORE YOU INVEST TIME

There is no confirmed record that these clients speak English. Establish it on your first contact. If a client cannot hold the conversation in a language you share, the record returns to Melih Ünver — tell the group and we move it the same day. This is not a failure; it is the system working as designed.

3 What you are inviting them to — two steps

1 · Monday 28 September · Online webinar · 13:00–15:00 · Zoom · Free

District-by-district price ranges across Athens and its surroundings, what each area actually buys, and which areas we recommend and why. Not a project pitch — a regional briefing. Say it plainly: "you are not expected to decide anything." No capacity limit; anyone can join from anywhere.

2 • A private consultation

The webinar is general; the private consultation is theirs alone. Their budget, their area, their timing. By phone, online or in person — whichever they prefer. Offer it to those who attend the webinar and to those who cannot; the two are not alternatives to each other.

Poster — send it on WhatsApp after the call:

PLEASE NOTE — THE 30 SEPTEMBER MEETING IS NOT YOURS TO OFFER

The 30 September meeting at Palladium Tower is hosted with two separate developer partners, and it sits outside your list. Do not offer it on these calls. Your two steps are the webinar and the private consultation. If a client asks about it directly, say a further meeting is being arranged and pass it to Sami or Melih.

NEVER SAY

No developer or company names — say "our developer partners, whose portfolio covers Piraeus and Athens as a whole". No unit-level prices; say "from €250,000". Never cast doubt on a specific project's Golden Visa eligibility. Never name a competitor. Never quote a rental yield for a specific project.

4 Who these people are

The budgets in the table are the clients' own declarations from our form. Most sit in the €250,000 – €300,000 band, several above — squarely inside the range you know best.

4 Two things to take from every call

YOU ALREADY HAVE THE BUDGET — THESE TWO ARE MISSING

They declared their budget on the form; it is in the table above. There are two things left for you to capture:

1 • Area — central Athens, the coast, an island, Thessaloniki? Only 4 of the 44 have an area on record.

2 • Timing — three months, six to twelve, next year? Only one has it on record.

The budget is known, but no shortlist can be built without area and timing. Whoever writes those two to the record becomes the only person able to put an offer in front of that client.

WHY THIS WEEK MATTERS

The Golden Visa threshold in Attica has risen to €800,000, while conversion and restoration projects remain inside the €250,000 exception. A 15% transfer tax for non-EU buyers is on the table for 2027. The line to give the client: the question is no longer where to buy, but which project is still inside that exception — and how the payment is secured.
